2002

Facade facelift

The owners of this 1940s home wanted to return the property's exterior to its original appearance while creating an attractive new entry.

Over the years, this Atlanta home had been sided with aluminum siding and the entryway had been painted and covered with an unattractive aluminum overhang. Small Carpenters at Large, Inc., in Atlanta, GA, set out to rediscover the home's original beauty.

The aluminum siding was removed from the gables of the home and the overhang was replaced. There were no existing drawings or photos of the original home, but underneath the aluminum siding on one of the gables, the remodelers discovered the original stucco and batten, albeit in very poor shape.

The gables were remodeled to resemble this original look, and the company designed and built a new covered entry over the front door that matched the stucco and batten. The front door, which had been painted, was hand-stripped and refinished to match the rest of the remodeled exterior. The new covered entry now draws attention to the refinished door and directs the eye to the entrance of the home, giving it a more distinctive appearance.

The project won a second place Qualified Remodeler 2002 Master Design Award in the Exterior Facelift category. ■

Star Power

Exclusive Annual Report

THE 2002 EDITION OF THE TOP 500 marks a significant shift in recognizing company success. This year's Top 500 has been expanded to include five benchmarks of company success and professionalism: Years in business, association membership, industry certification, community service and industry awards. These criteria were selected with the advice and help of a number of perennial Top 500 companies.

Top 500 companies are ranked by their annual installed volume for 2001, but also assigned one or more stars for each of the above five criteria. So for example, Statewide Remodeling is being recognized as a "star Top 500 company, ranked

No. 35 on the list," and Case Design/Remodeling is a "five star Top 500 company, ranked No. 12 on the list."

Altogether, the 2002 Top 500 companies' accomplishments are evident as 59 companies achieved five star ratings; 102 are four star companies; 127 are three star companies; 174 are two star companies; and 38 are Top 500 star companies.

★ Industry Involvement

Belonging to and being involved in industry associations is a proven way for owners to add to their skills and increase their companies' professionalism. A whopping 474 (94.8%) of the Top 500 companies belong to one or more associations.

★ Certified Personnel

★ Awards

A total of 126 Top 500 companies won industry awards in 2001.

TOTAL TOPS $3 BILLION

Total annual installed volume for the 2002 Top 500 increased from $2.6 billion last year to $3.1 billion. The range in average installed volume by company was $1.2 million to $250 million. A total of 293 (59%) of the Top 500 companies provided documentation from a Certified Public Accountant or their accounting service, and in recognition their listings are in boldface type.

The effects of the 9-11 tragedy were mixed. Half of the Top 500 companies saw no change in their business in the fourth quarter of 2001. On the negative side, 21% of the companies saw business drop 1-19% and 14% saw a drop of more than 20%. On the positive side, 10% of the Top 500 companies saw business increase in the fourth quarter of 2001 by 1-19% and 5% saw business increase by 20% or more.

Overall, 72% of Top 500 companies increased sales in 2001 over the previous year and 20% had a decrease. For 2002, 70% of the companies project a sales increase over 2001, and 8% see sales dropping this year.

BUSINESS BREAK-OUT

For the first time companies were asked to define their primary business. A total of 301 companies are full-service remodelers with a combined 2001 volume of $1.51 billion, and 199 are specialty companies with a combined volume of $1.56 billion.

Within the full-service companies, full service (general contracting) companies totaled 181 with a combined volume of $757.9 million; design/build firms totaled 88 with a combined volume of $326.4 million; nine companies specialize in kitchen & bath with a total volume of $49.5 million; and 23 companies provide insurance restoration service with a combined volume of $371.9 million. Belfor, the No. 1 company on the list accounted for $250 million alone.

TOP 500 RECOGNITION

Top 500 companies will be recognized at an awards event to be held on Wednesday evening, October 30 in Indianapolis (see ad on page 47). Companies will be honored for having the highest volume ranking in their business and/or service category (see box page 26). Companies were selected based on their sales volume, business category classification, or for doing 70% or more of their annual volume in one service category. All award winners also provided verification of their reported volume. ■
